

Epistemics - todo: catchy title

Subtitle

Some orienting text

Early outlook

After Mum responds to the initial question (l. 2), Lesley asks another (l. 3); Lesley greets Mum's answer (l. 4) with 'oh' and an assessment. So before this exchange, Lesley would have been K- and Mum K+ with respect to this issue, and the epistemic gradient between the two represented by a cline, as in Figure 6.2\(a\); after it, both would be K+, as in 6.2\(b\).

Figure 6.2 Relative epistemic access before and after extract (19)

Source: Rebecca Clift (2018), Conversation Analysis, p. 202